to the committee is all prepared." From this it is inferred that the Republicans have already mapped out the entire work of the investigation.

Berry is one of the most intelligent of all the governor's supporters, and has been in the investigating business before. He was chairman of the committee that in vestigated the Globe Bank. Mr. Spolding's wrecked institution in Chicago. was fathered by Mr. Lundin.

WOMAN FASHION'S DICTATES.

Even on dress toilets, and not alone on tailor gowns, strong efforts are be-ing made to remove even the pretty little decorative puffs, caps and frills from the tops of the sleeves, leaving them wholly plain and unadorned.

frilling or lace are very much used on bodices fastened at the left side, and a very dressy appearance is imparted to otherwise simple gowns by this addi-tion. Geranium red satin or taffeta, for instance, is used for the purpose on gowns of soft grey India cashmere. black corded silk, or other dark or neutral dresses; the collar, cuffs and folded girdle made of the same bright

The taste for soft, delicate woolens, like Henrietta cloth, drap d'ete, vig-ogne and India cashmere, is never wholly lost, although their attractions may be temporarily obscured by the more pronounced novelty of rough or shaggy fabrics, not a few of which are leceptive as to real durability, as many have discovered. The refinement which is characteristic of these fine, beautiful woolens also marks the fash-ionable dyes for the winter, for the greater portion of the new colors are various tones of brown, blue, fawn, gray, green and beige, of great delicacy.

Russian or oak green drap d'ete or ladies' cloth, and also French camel's hair, with or without shaggy bars or dots, is combined in winter costumes with various rich furg, and looks remarkably well with nearly every sort. It is extremely effective and stylish with narorw black fur bands and black arabesque braiding, or with black Persian lamb, looking richer and brighter by contrast. It combines elegantly with mink or sealskin, and is equally in good taste with beaver or Alaska sable. Golden gray plucked beaver, chinchilla and baby lamb ful are used with fawn and dove-colored cloth cos-tumes by women of clear complexion with rich color. The deep shades of brown are, however, becoming to many types of faces, made up unrelieved with

Book Tea Fair for the Newsboys' Home Labrary New Year's Day at the Russian Legation.

There is a cheerful old saying about the darkest hour preceding the dawn, which is distinctly applicable to the present social outlook, which is the dullest of the season. though it heralds the approach of the official gayeties, which, if all goes well, witt continue until Lent shrougs the world in sackcloth, and puts ashes on its brow. The calendar of the week's events may be meager for this season, but there is no could about their being interesting, because of the prominence of the hostesses and the hospitality for which each is graciously famed.

On Monsiny evening Commander and Mrs. Richardson Clover will entertain at dinner and at night the Monday dancing class. ed by Mrs. Sheridan. Mrs. Mrs. Boardman, Mrs. Borney, Mrs. McMillan. Mrs. Hague, and other social leaders, will give its second dance at Rauscher's,

On Tuesday the young ladies who con-tributed so generously to the success of the Festival of Holidays, last month, for the benefit of the Newsboy's Home, will give a Book Tea for the benefit of the library of the home. It is a law in the kingdom of Mother Goose that a cat may look at a king. It is undoubtedly a gratifying occupation, judging by the satisfaction it ap pears to give the average Anjecican who goes abroad and catches a glimpse at a crown. And now we are to have a good ook at a real prince, who will one day e a real king.

Prince Albert Leopold, the Leir pre sumptive to the Reigian throne, is about to finish his royal education with a tour around the world. Already social New York is in a quiver of bospitable excite ment as to who shall entertain him, and how, but Washington is superior to such domestic worries. He will be welcomed as we welcomed H. R. H. the Prince of Wales a long, long time ago, and after him the Grand Duke Alexis, de sensible Dom Pedro, dusky King Kalakau and Spanish Princess Entalie. And whe he goes home he will say it to a "special orrespondent" which means all the world that Washington is the most beautiful city in the country, and its people the nicest in the world. The Belgian Prince is twenty-three years old, good bearted and brave. He is the captain commander of the King sgrenadie.s. each man of whom, individually and co-npletely, highzes him because he shares the ardships of soldiery and never puts on air-He does not possess the military appearance that his martial soul deserves, however, for like too many sciens of royal blood, the com ing King of the Belgians is not strong. He is said to be fairly good looking, how-ver, sweet tempered and chivalrous, and that with the pleasant fact that he will nherit a fortune along with the throne now ecupied by his uncle. King Leopold, ought insure him an enthusiastic welcome. In the way of amusements the Prince rides. wheel, and prefers bunting and fishing to all other sports. that the Prince willmarry his cousin. Princess dementine Leopold's third daughter, and theaffianced of Prince Albert'selder brother Prince Badouin, who washeir presumptive to the throne at the time of his tragic death. The Princess still mourns for her slain lover. however, and as for the pretty young Princess also been linked, there is another royal lover whom she prefers. So It is just as like as not that the beir to the Belgian thro e is telling what may happen.
